Gossip ABOUT FORT HENRY .- We find the following in a letter to the St. Louis Republican: Colonel Dickey's Fourth Cavalry (Illinois) has been regarded as one of the hest in the service, and was sent on with the first column designed to attack Fort Henry in the rear. They marched from near the mouth of the Tennessee river, reconncitering the western shore. It was supposed the fort would stand a siage of many hours; it took six mouths to prepare its defences, and it had been beasted that 50,000 men and all the gunboats at our command could not reduce it. But boats at our command could not reduce it. But the rebol troops were so frightened they nearly all left hefore the first shot was fired! The forl held out just one hour and fifteen minutes. Meantime the land forces were coming up ex-pecting to hight their way into the fort from the rear, when, to their niter astonishment, they found the fort had been surrendered and all the found the fort had been su-rendered and all the rebel troops gone. They used a parfect stampade, leaving tente staeding, stores, beggage, arms, everything, end their track was strewed with muckets, pietols, and everything that could impede thair flight. A part of the Fourth Cavelry, under Lient. Colonel McCullough, holog hadvence, were first in the fort. But they did not stop to look for spoils; they rushed on in pursuit of the enemy until night, taking thirty prisoners and six pleces of light artillary.

While this was going on, Msj r Wellace, with four companies, scouted lowards Fort Ducelson, and Captain Rockwood brought up the rear of the division. Maj r James, with two companies, was on the other side of the river with General mith.

HOW GEN. STONE'S TERASONABLE CORRES CONDENCE WAS DISCOVERED .- A Washingto prespondent of the New York Tribune gives the following explanation of the manner in which Gen. Stone's treachery was discovered:

An honorably discharged New York soldier on visiting Washingtoo, for the purpose of getting his pay, mantioned to a gentleman in one of the public offices, that while he—the foldier—was on picket duty nast Edwards's Ferry, some time subsequent to the Ball's Bluff affir, Gen. Stone, accompanied by a single servant, rode down neer the Ferry, and entering an old nuoccapied house, locked across the river through his spy glass. He then renconted and rode away, but soon returned, and having apparently discovered, by the aid of then rencented and rede away, but soon returned, and having apparently discovered, by the aid of his apyglase, the object for which he was looking, waved his hand. Directly about a dozen rebel borsemen appeared on the opposite back. Gen. Stone then went to the pickeie and ordered five men to cross and see what the horsemen wanted. On reaching the Virginia shore they were retuined as hostages, while an equal number of rebels crossed over, and held a conference with Gen. Stone, in the house helver described. A soldier at the fetry saw a scaled packet passing batween the rebels and the General. One of the rebels remarked to one of the hostages that they had "come down by appointment." Capt. Porter headed the rabels. Owing to the danger that rehels remarked to one of the hostages that they had "come down by appointment." Capt. Porter headed the rabels. IMPORTANT DESIGN IN RESERVE TO A LOT OF COFFEE CLAIMED LT A VILGINIAN .- On Monday Julgs Sprague delivered his opicion in the U. S. C art at Hoston, in the case of the Amy while violating the blockade, seeking to reach Richmond. The Traveller says:

while violating the blockade, seeking to reach Richmond. The Traveller says:

The vessel was condemned, her claiment being one Curry, of Richmond. Of 5,000 hags of coffee constituting her carge, 4,600 ere claimed to have been chipped in English seconds, a der certain conditions, and is reserved for future acquication. The remaining 400 bags belonged to E. D. Davenport, of Richmond, who claims that he is a loyal citizen of the United States, and that therefore his right in the matter should be respected, and the coffee handed over to his agent.

The court delivered an opinion which covered the question completely, and is important as a procedent in all future cases. It was substantially to this effect: In the first place, the continuals a distinction between contraland properly captured at zea and that ceptured on hind. In the latter case the plea of the claiment would be open to serious consideration, but captured on the sea came under plain and well known general rules of maritime law. In the second place, the distinction was made between the citizens of a State like Kentucky or Misserel, where there was a divided allegiance, and an uncertain and onsettled covereignly, and such a State action, which by the set of its established government, approved by a majority of a chizen, had placed itself in a sinte or war with the Esdaral government, approved by a majority of a chizen, had placed itself in a sinte or war with the Fadaral government. The State coverciously was enemony, and everything that could afford aid and comfort to the onemy was contracted of war, whetherer the private opinions of its expert. He was identified with the State of the production, and for various reasons his a him to the property in question was loadmiscible, and the said property i

The water had rison so high that our infantry had been moved out early the morning of the fight, some thought to meet the Federals, who were reported as advancing from the rear, while others thought it is dicated that it was to fell back towards Fert Denelson. It is certain at all events towards Fort Donelson. It is certain at all events that our infantry was moved out of the Fort hefore the fight, and that they had to wade in water waist deep to got away. The high water placed the gunloats on a portred level with the fort, and the fiting is said to have been exceedingly well directed. The force in the Fort is astimated at from 200 to 500. Gen. Tilghmen was reported in the neighborhood of the Fort on the morning before the fight. The impression appears to be that our authorities had concluded that it was imported, in the high stage of the water, to hold it, and had looved off most of the provisions and all the force except the artitlerymen. of our patriotic and illustrious correspondent

The capture of Fort Donelson is a crushing blow to the rebellion, and leaves Nashville and Memphis at the mercy of the Union forces, if indeed they will have the temerity to offer any further resistance to the might of the Government. It will he some days hefore the details of the hattle can be received. The loss of life on both sides has doubtless heen rebels with all the energy of despair. We give in other columns all the facts connected with the hattle which have reached us, and shall await the full retures with great solicitude. Meanwhile, with feelings of grateful joy too deep for ntterance, we congratulate onr fellow-citizens on the prospect of peace and national supremacy which nt last is opening hright hefore us.

THE MIGHTIEST EVENT OF THE WAR .- Of coursa we need not cularge upon the vast importance-vast both in character and in rebults-of the event with which the whole nation is now resonnding, the victory of the Union arms at Fort Donelson. It is an event ef great, of tremendous moment. It Iranseends in magnitude all the other conflicts of the war combined, hilliant and stariling as some of them have been. Millions and milliens of patriots will shont over it and kiudle bonfires and ring bells and discharge cannon and join in torch-light processions, and even in the rebel sections of the Union hundreds of thousands of hearts that hitherto have dared to cherish their loyalty only in secrecy will give atterance to their joy in words as free and hrave as the winds that sweep the sky.

The taking of Fort Donelson was a truly prodigious work. The Confederate military authorities did not believe that it could be done hy any force that could be brought against them. Their confidence in its supposed imprognahility made them willing to risk everything on the issue. They had just as many heavy gnns as they wanted, some of them, it ally to liquidate their indabtedness. appears 128 pounders, as heavy siege guns as be slangblered by the murderous fire of artil- the citizens of the county of Marion: lery and thousands of rifles from points of Resolved, That while we are not wedded to any comparative security, and all the other obsta-eles were created that ingenuity could devise and numbers and industry execute. Add to and numbers and industry execute. Add to all this, these terrible defences are said to have been defended by an army of twenty-five or thirty thousand men fighting under the black flag, the murderous llag of no surrender and no quarter.

We do not know of an instance on record where such a powerful work, so powerfully manned, was carried by an army except after long investment and slow and recentific approaches. We do not know what was the strength of Gen. Grant's army, but, knewing what we did of Fort Donelson, we trembled for experted days with painful anneals and not like a mount, and so one cory four months, from the last execution is easiefied. Wa helieve that the interests of the creditor class are as much, or ought to be, interested in some well digasted plan of this kind as for saveral days with painful apprehensions as the delicer class. to the issue of the approaching attack. GAN. ELIZABETHTOWN, KY., Feb. 15, 1862. Our prespects are brightening; the hope of the nation is growing stronger, and the great heart series of successes that are greeting our nums is every quarter. We extend you the hand of congratulation, and hope that no shadow of reversa has undergone some purification of late. Treason the roast." Brigadier General Ward, who is in command of the 16th brigade, has his headquarters at this place. Though he is quiet and retiring in manner, yet he is a brave, chivalric and talented officer. He is thoroughly acquainte with every fint of the country compars d by the military operations on this line. His brigade consists of a number of splendid regiments, and when the golden epportualty is afforded they will strike heavy and off.c'ive blows against this acenreed rehallion.

The "Fry Scouts," an independent compan of cavalry commanded by Capt. II. G. Twyman, is, for the present, attached to this brigade. This gallant officer, under the favoring auspices of the Militray Board, and the General commanding the ispartment, is fast recrniting and equipping a oody of bold and daring spirits, whose object i to aselst in ridding the country of the reving pards of thieves and robbers that infest many of our loyal communities, and steal, hurn, and murder in the name of the "Southern Confederacy." Captain T, came very near "bagging" the note rious bandit Juhn Morgan, on lie return from his late expedition to Tanily'c, between Lebanon and Campbellsville. Happening to be in Greensburg at the time with a portion of his command arranging soms business for the Government, and, learning that Morgan was in the neighborhood he mounted his men, pursued him to Green river and would, doubtless, have out him off with his whole band, had it not been for the los of the ferry boat, which the rebals turned loose from the opposite side. As it was, they harely escaped by a few minutes, and the Union scouts were compelled to return, much chagrined at losing the chance to crose sabras with the robber gang Such well regulated and effective companies as the one raised by Captain T. should meet with good encouragement, as it will prove of great consfit to the service. Important movements are casting their shadowe around here. Our people are awaiting the development of coming events with excited interest. We hear etrange noises at unusual hours of night. We have our notlons and opinions, but they don't amount to anything. Therefore, for fear that I might say something on this enbject which either onght not to be said, or is not worth saying, I'll "dry up."
